EMSHA STUDENTS OBSERVE HOW THE CZECH REPUBLIC DELIVERS HEALTHCARE

DURING APRIL, the members of E 45 learned first-hand about the Czech Healthcare System while in Prague. During their 3-day residency field visit, they were introduced to a number of healthcare executives and leaders in the Czech health system. A highlight of the visit was a discussion with Minister of Health, Dr. Leos Heger, who shared his perspective on the current state of healthcare in the Czech Republic and his vision for the future of the system.

The educational experience began with an overview of the system provided by Dr. David Marx, Vice-Dean - Undergraduate Education and Student Affairs, Charles University. He provided details on the system that would serve as valuable background for the facility visits and discussions with healthcare executives. The group toured a number of healthcare delivery facilities during the three-day visit. Faculty and students toured FN Motol Hospital, one of the largest hospitals in Central Europe, and enjoyed learning about its organizational structure and quality management initiatives during presentations by clinicians and administrators. The tour concluded with a visit to the FN Motol Emergency Department.

EMSHA Students in Prague

To see a different side of healthcare delivery, the group toured the Medicon Ambulatory Care Center. Dr. Jiri Skrivanek, Director of Health Programs, is a surgeon who has worked as deputy of Thomayer Faculty Hospital and at Motol Hospital in Prague. Dr. Skrivanek answered questions that concern the healthcare system in the Czech Republic and at the medical center. At the Medicon "Mamma Center," a center for the screening and diagnoses of breast cancer, the group met with Senior Consult, Miroslava Skovajsova, Ph.D., founder of the center. The discussion included topics such as same-day screening results for their patients, facts about the center and its management, and broader efforts to increase screenings within the Czech Republic.

On the final day, the group ventured outside of Prague to the small town of Kosmonosy. They visited Kosmonosy Psychiatric Hospital where clinicians and administrators at made presentations and held discussions with the Executive MSHA students and faculty. Topics covered included information on the management of the facility, mental healthcare in the Czech Republic, and culture differences in the approach to mental health and substance abuse.

The field experience was educational, enjoyable, and viewed positively by all that attended. Dr. Kierstin Cates Leslie, Resident in Internal Medicine – Pediatrics, revealed that this trip was "eye-opening because the Czech Republic has a very different structure for its healthcare system than we do. This trip gave me a very new and interesting insight into how our healthcare system could evolve to a system that provides coverage for all. There are many aspects of their system (the insurance company set up, taxing income for healthcare, etc) that ideally we would be able to adopt, but that may be difficult given the longstanding American culture that supports capitalism and competition and that opposes taxing. Despite these cultural differences I still believe that there is a great deal that we could learn from the Czech Republic healthcare system and also that they could adapt from our system, especially with the advances that we continue to make in quality of care."

In addition, Shana L. Osman, Nurse Manager at UAB Hospital, shared, "My experience learning and visiting the healthcare system in the Czech Republic was amazing. Overall, I found the system faces many of the same challenges as our healthcare system, primarily the large cost of healthcare delivery."

ALTERNATIVE CAREER TRACKS POSSIBLE

MARK HAMILTON (Class 33) a tenant at Innovation Depot, recently worked with UAB Graphic Design students and Assistant Professor Doug Barrett, in designing a logo for his company, Choice Research of Birmingham. It was a great experience for all involved, offering real world experience for the students and quality branding material for Choice Research. The collaboration involved an initial interview where the students sought descriptive terms from Hamilton regarding the company today, the image he wants to portray, and his vision for the future of Choice Research. Students then presented their concepts and Hamilton picked the ideas he thought best illustrated the image he wants to portray for his company. The final product is clinical, inviting, professional and warm.

Choice Research manages clinical research trials in partnership with local private practice physicians. By delivering subjects from a physician's current active patient rolls, rather than "professional study subjects", Choice Research offers a more accurate demographic reflection than traditional trial management organizations. Hamilton believes that this unique approach, along with his traditional education from UAB's MSHA program, enables him to offer a more complete management relationship for and between the pharmaceutical and research organization and local physicians. Contracting with local physicians, Choice Research employs clinicians at the RN and LPN levels, providing study management services and subjects for pharmas on the local/regional level (Biocryst, Inhibitex) and international organizations such as Boehringer-Ingelheim and Glaxo Smith-Kline, among others. In the two years since Choice Research of Birmingham was started at Innovation Depot they have managed trials for indications including Diabetes, COPD, Gout and Shingles.

Hamilton has taken a circuitous route to providing a non-traditional service in the health care continuum. After a residency at Infirmity Health System in Mobile, he worked in Program Development and Marketing at Patricia Neal Rehabilitation Center at Covenant Health System in Knoxville, before returning to Birmingham and working with United Healthcare in recruiting.

When an associate in Dothan approached him about developing a business plan for his company, Choice Research, Mark identified an opportunity to use his education, expertise and talents in administration, marketing, negotiation, planning, and development. "When I was in graduate school traditional health care admin was still our expectation. This was an opportunity that I did not seek out, but made great sense when it was presented to me."

THE REWARD OF REALIZING YOUR GIFTS

DERRICK L. MILES (Class 34), Managing Partner, Milestone Motivation, has forged a new path for his career. The information below is based on an article that appeared recently on an online website – One Million Entrepreneurs.

After working 10+ years as a health care executive, I began to notice that my desire to help people improve their lives superseded my personal drive to pad my resume. Regardless of the location, size or type of organization, I noticed that the lion's share of workers were burn-out, frustrated and ineffective.

I believe that all people are motivated, but the majority of workers today are motivated by fear. Fear that they won't be able to afford their homes, save for retirement, pay for their children's education or realize their dream vacation. As a result, workers accept jobs out of fear and operate from a position of weakness. I also witnessed that there was a small percentage of people in the workplace who were creative, resourceful and full of energy. Those individuals operated from a position of strength! When I became a casualty of the downturn in the economy, I had a decision to make. Go and take another executive position or help others realize the Superhuman Power they had inside of themselves. I chose the latter.

Milestone Motivation is a professional development and training company. Our approach motivates workers to utilize the gifts we have inside of ourselves to obtain the promotion, achieve the salary and the dreams that lie in our hearts. When individuals have command of their gifts, we are more creative, resourceful and are full of energy. These types of people help corporations produce more products, provide exceptional customer service and increase the bottom line.

I have two nuggets of wisdom that I would like to share with aspiring entrepreneurs:

- When deciding to start your business, focus on solving a person's problem. There is no recession for entrepreneurs who can effectively solve a person's problem. Starting with this mindset will allow you to create multiple products and services that are unique to the marketplace. Your future customers are looking for products that save them time and money. Follow this step and you are well on your way to living the life you deserve.

- Be willing to collaborate with others who are naturally gifted in areas where you struggle. The area of frustration that I've witnessed the most from entrepreneurs is when we attempt to become a Jack of All Trades to save money. This strategy puts you in an environment you are not comfortable and you immediately begin to lose energy. Entrepreneurs must be willing to hire people who are naturally gifted in areas where we struggle.

My personal mantra is to help ready individuals and corporations alike place gifted individuals into the right seats of organizations and companies. When an individual is operating according to their gift they are more resourceful, creative and full of energy. These types of people help corporations produce more products, provide exceptional customer service and increase the bottom line.

“The analysis of the case study by the students is on par with what Memorial Hermann Healthcare System would expect from paid consultants,” said Chuck Stokes.

5th ANNUAL CASE COMPETITION FOCUSES ON ACOS

BIRMINGHAM, AL: For the first time since the inception of the Health Administration Case Competition, the case scenario was “unmasked” for the teams. We would like to extend tremendous appreciation to the willingness of Memorial Hermann Healthcare System and its Chief Operating Officer, Chuck Stokes (Class 17), for sharing vast amounts of information that allowed the teams to develop their recommendations for developing an accountable care organization for this Houston-based integrated delivery system. After the competition, Stokes debriefed the group on the actual strategies his system is deploying. Stokes commented he plans to take several ideas from the competition back to his board.

“The analysis of the case study by the students is on par with what Memorial Hermann Healthcare System would expect from paid consultants,” said Chuck Stokes, COO of the system. “The students identified more than 75 percent of the strategies that our organization has implemented or considered implementing.”

“As we redesign the new model of health care, it’s good to know that we have such bright, innovative professionals who will be developing and implementing strategies that will improve the quality of health care at a reduced cost.”

With continued support from the UAB Health System, the 5th Annual Health Administration Case Competition drew a record number of teams, with eight participating for their first time. First place in the competition was awarded to the team from Baruch/Mt. Sinai College; second place was awarded to the team from University of Central Florida; and, third place went to the team from University of North Carolina – Chapel Hill. Three other teams were also finalists including Penn State, Johns Hopkins University and George Washington University. This year, six additional teams were selected as Honorable Mention winners: Ohio State University, University of Alabama at Birmingham, University of Iowa, University of Minnesota, University of Missouri, and University of Pittsburgh. Members from MSHA Class 46 served as Ambassadors for the visiting teams, which proved to be a great way to network with students from across the country.

This year’s Health Administration Case Competition was strengthened by the excellent teams representing schools from around the country as well as the national panel of judges:

First Place Team from Baruch/Mt. Sinai College

Second Place Team from University of Central Florida

Third Place Team from UNC-Chapel Hill

CLASS 45 “TEES UP” SCHOLARSHIPS

BIRMINGHAM, AL: The 5th annual MSHA Classic, supported by Class 45 and the Alumni Association of the Graduate Programs in Health Administration, proved to be successful through the hard work and perseverance of the MSHA Classic officers and classmates! The golf tournament generated nearly $20,000 towards the students' professional development fund, which reimburses students for travel to meetings such as ACHE, HIMSS, MGMA, HFMA, and the National Symposium for Healthcare Executives. In addition, a portion of the monies raised this year were donated to Children's Miracle Network, a non-profit organization which strives to provide free medical care to the uninsured population in the Birmingham area.

The Inverness Country Club served as the tournament host and provided a picturesque setting for the tournament. The MSHA Classic provides preceptors, alumni, and friends of the MSHA Program a chance to get to know a number of students on a more personal basis. A number of MSHA alumni met and teamed up to help the current graduate students.

NEW TRADITIONS STILL EVOLVING EVEN AS MSHA CLASS 45 LEAVES CAMPUS

BIRMINGHAM, AL: Class 45 continued to invent new traditions, even during their last week of classes. A mighty crew of students and faculty geared up for a paintball battle at Fort Red Rock. When it was all said and done, no one had bodily injury – just major bruises. Those who participated encouraged future classes to keep the tradition.

With over 130 friends, family members and faculty, the Class 45 Graduation Dinner at The Club atop Red Mountain was an extraordinary evening as each Class 45 member shared significant memories about their time in the MSHA Program.

Upsilon Phi Delta Inductees: Mike Hill, Matt Klosterman, and Jim Bush

and a crimson and blue tassel—signifying the official colors of Upsilon Phi Delta.

Caroline Sarratt, President of Class 45, concluded the evening with a touching tribute to the incredible times shared by class members and faculty and ended with words of wisdom from the famous philosopher – Dr. Seuss.

Caroline Sarratt and Claire O'Rear armed and ready for paintball are selected on the basis of academic achievements, service to the community and contribution to the health care management profession. Graduate students must have a minimum GPA of 3.5 and be in the top 10% of their class. Jim Bush, W. Michael Hill, Jr., and Matt Klosterman were the inductees for MSHA Class 45 and were honored during the Graduation Dinner. Each inductee received a rose, a certificate, an honor society pen, cord

Another special part of the evening was the sixth induction ceremony for the University of Alabama at Birmingham Chapter of Upsilon Phi Delta Honor Society. The purpose of Upsilon Phi Delta is to further the professional competence and dedication of the individual members in the profession of health care management. Members
